- Configure email accounts for one click notification. - Turn off the sound alerts. - Use a per-email account's name and notification color. [MUSIC PLAYING] All the emails in your inbox are arranged by days. Well, well, well, let's see what you have. [MUSIC PLAYING] All these emails are pretty important. Why not make them more important? [MUSIC PLAYING] For that, I use Chul's Gmail Notifier, because all you have to do is setup a couple of email accounts and you're good to go. [MUSIC PLAYING] Chul's Gmail Notifier has just joined my list of must-have apps. [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] OK. There's the next email. We'll just go to inbox. If any mail is archived, it doesn't appear in the list. [MUSIC PLAYING] But for those emails, and I got about 7,000 emails, I'm keeping track of the last time that I checked the email. [MUSIC PLAYING] I only checked the email every third or fourth day for 1,000 days, so that's about three months. [MUSIC PLAYING] Yeah, I'll check the email on the 1,000th day. [MUSIC PLAYING] I've removed the old list of email, and the old message counts, and then I start over. [MUSIC PLAYING] I'm gonna have to listen to that one more time and see if there's anything in there. [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] Chul's Gmail Notifier: Chul. Well, I guess that's all of them. OK, I'll just check the new mail in the morning. [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING] [MUSIC PLAYING]

Q: Seeking a modern checklist for lab safety In my university we have a yearly "where do we stand in lab safety" that we're supposed to do a draft on and submit before the start of the semester. I was wondering what's a modern and easy way to compose this safety checklist, or whether any company sells their safety worksheets. The safety checklist contains things like Plastic gloves should be worn at all times Use dedicated tools for tasks only, like dedicated beakers for water and chemicals Metal utensils should be covered in a clean, plastic cover These concepts are common, but it's tough to keep track of them all. They are usually taught as chunks (especially the first ones), however, so I find it hard to keep up with it all. Even if they're taught as a list of tasks, I find it hard to remember the order in which to do them. The solution should be simple for some form of checklist (something that can be scribbled on a whiteboard) or sheet that I can print and fill out easily before the class, and ideally downloadable (I have no problem sharing it with my fellow students). It's a deadline-friendly, quick to go through, and can help keep people aware of the safety of the lab and prevent possible accidents. I don't want something complicated, like for work safety or something, there's a ton of them. I'm not looking for exact numbers, a general "safety rule of thumb" that I can remember or something. Edit: This is essentially what I'm looking for. A: It depends on the lab (the type of experiment, chemicals used, students of what age). I have noticed some companies selling safety sheets like the safety sheet here and the one I used in my chemistry class. There are some templates provided for
