MPS Mini Desktop Serial Key is a great application that has the capability to create a new desktop. It's super easy to use and it has a lot of features. The only drawback is that it doesn't seem to have any documentation for the functions. Q: Rails: Displaying a different application based on navigational choice I'm currently building a rails app that displays on a page that shows a user a form to choose some type of content, after that form is submitted, the post link is shown. I'd like to be able to use the application action to determine what template rails should display the form. A: I think the closest you can get is to have the controller redirect back to some controller action inside a certain class depending on the result of your form. There are some methods like request.env["PATH_INFO"] that contain this information but I'm not sure if this can be used (maybe someone else can confirm). Another way to do this could be to use a gem which also allows you to have a different controller action depending on the result of the form. Here's some examples: Resque: Deprecate: Experimentally induced respiratory infection in newborn calves: infection-associated changes in distribution of peripheral blood T-lymphocyte subsets. The distribution of two different T-cell subsets was studied in calves experimentally infected with Streptococcus zooepidemicus. The distribution of these cells in the peripheral blood was determined by immunofluorescence staining of surface antigens, while changes in cell numbers were determined by an immunoperoxidase technique. Increased numbers of both CD4 and CD8 cells were detected in the peripheral blood during the infection, and decreased numbers of both T-cell subsets were found in the nasal mucosa and the bronchial lymph node. In the airway mucosa and the submandibular lymph node, the distribution of CD4 and CD8 cells was not significantly different from that in the controls. The results show that respiratory infection in newborn calves results in changes in the number of T-lymphocyte subsets at different anatomical sites 6a5afdb4c
