Here's a tutorial about making light leaks in Photoshop. Adobe Photoshop has become a household name for a reason: It's the go-to program for most image editing. This tutorial will show you how to take a picture of light leaking through a window frame and use Photoshop's layers feature to manipulate it to create a futuristic portrait. Create a light leak effect in Photoshop with style and grace, and turn a window shot into a portrait! Light leak effects are good for adding style and adding contrast to a picture. Many compositional elements can be used as layers in Photoshop to create a portrait. Photoshop is an incredibly powerful tool. Learn the basics of the Photoshop editing program and how to take a simple photo and transform it into something that could almost look painted. One of the most time-consuming aspects of Photoshop is altering a photo's lighting and color values. This tutorial will teach you how to turn a window shot into a futuristic portrait. Edit a photo in Photoshop and turn it into a futuristic portrait! The main advantage of Photoshop is its ease of use and ability to edit raster images. You can edit vectors in Photoshop and work with shapes. Create a realistic light leak effect in Photoshop Creating a realistic light leak effect in Photoshop is very easy to do and the results can look really good when the concept is nailed correctly. The most popular use of light leaks is for effects that are used in "sci-fi" or futuristic movies and video games. Here we are going to examine how you can actually take a window shot and create a realistic light leak effect in Photoshop. This effect will take an image and apply a layer style to it. You should have knowledge of working in Photoshop, so jump to the next step. Advertisement Step 1: Import Window Shot Open up Photoshop and select a window shot from a location where sunlight shines through and touches the window frame. To quickly import an image into Photoshop: Open up Photoshop and the usual File > Open or click on the Open button on the Tools menu. Select an image. Select Windows > Import. Step 2: Create a New Layer There will be two new layers created when you import the image into Photoshop. The first layer is the image of the window. The second is a new layer

This past season, one surprise performer was the Bruins' point guard, Malcolm Lagana, Jr., a former big-time point guard at Clemson University. Lagana was a guest on the Boston Sports Live on 93.7 The Ticket's "The Drive" with Scott Zolak, where he revealed that former Boston College assistant Jim Christiano is a potential head-coaching candidate. "I think he's a good coach," Lagana said. "I'd love to play for him." Christiano, meanwhile, said that he would consider staying in Florida if he were asked to take the Florida Gulf Coast head-coaching job. "To me, this is a very challenging, exciting place to be at," Christiano said. "I'm not looking to go somewhere else. They're going to get somebody with an aggressive mentality and a coach that's not afraid to say 'Let's go.' And that's a hard sell if you're not yourself." He added that it's important to him that a successful program has good results on the court. "I like the challenges of being around that," he said. "I understand what the process is. I understand the program, and I understand their expectations. I think they can be as good as any team in this league." It was the worst financial year in the history of journalism. In England, the IPPR has just released its long-awaited comprehensive investigation into the state of the UK media today and it's not pretty. Across print and digital, news coverage and political coverage and comment has shrunk. The UK's media has lost over half its market share since 1989. The number of journalists has declined by half a million over the last 30 years. Television jobs have been in decline since the mid 1990s. Print jobs have been in decline since the early 1990s. Comment is currently the only sector that seems to be growing. The report finds that journalists are on average earning less than they were in the mid 1990s, the start of Rupert Murdoch's near decade of consolidation and of the digital revolution which still is unfolding. But it gets worse, the IPPR warns that the crisis in journalism is only half the story and that it's not confined to Britain either.

Q: How to change appearance of bubble when I am hovering it? Hello Guys I have created a list in css using some list-style-image, I have the whole list hoverable and I want to change the appearance of the li element when I am hovering it. When I am trying to apply any properties in hover for li, it's effecting other li. Please help me with these How to change the appearance of hover image? A: You need to use the :hover pseudo class selector in this case. This is a very common mistake. The selector (:hover) requires an element that is already hovered on, for example: #menu #home:hover { /* Any code you want to run when you hover the home link */ } Which will only run if the #menu #home is hovered on, but you also want to run the same code when any of the other links on #menu are hovered on. This isn't an issue, however, if the same link is hovered on twice, like: #menu.home:hover { /* Any code you want to run when you hover the home link */ } Which will run when the #menu.home is hovered on. If you want to apply the hover to any element, you have to use the child selector, like the following: #menu > li:hover { /* Any code you want to run when you hover the home link */ } You can also use this for any parent element inside #menu. Q: Setting different gpu shares for docker nvidia containers I'm trying to do the following for a docker container. A docker container using Kubernetes contains a nvidia GPU instance, and would like to share it with all nodes in the cluster. I have three options I'm thinking of in terms of how the container could use the GPU. Contain a `gpu_shares` element in the dockerfile for the container Map the `gpu` into a separate network interface Allow the container to request a `gpu` from the docker host I'm trying to avoid having a docker host running a container that uses up the host's GPU resource, but I'm not sure what's
