This page is devoted to tutorials and techniques to help the beginner, intermediate and advanced user of AutoCAD. Intermediate Viewing Plans To view a drawing on the screen use the View Drawings tool on the Standard toolbar. The View Drawings tool should be used as a power-user feature. The View Drawings tool allows you to view all your drawings in the current drawing, or multiple drawings at once, with a single click of the mouse. You can use the tool to zoom in and out of drawings. Double clicking a drawing with the View Drawings tool will open that drawing in a new window. You can control which drawings are shown in the View Drawings tool by using the Drawings property on the View Drawings tool. Drawings can be selected by holding the ALT key and clicking on them. The ALT key holds the selected drawings. The function of the Drawings property on the View Drawings tool depends on the state of the Drawings property on the View Drawings tool. Note: If you have made an active selection in any drawing, you can see the whole drawing by choosing View – Show All Drawings. Drawings-dependent properties of the View Drawings tool include the following: In the following example, the "All Drawings" property is set to "Drawing 2". The "Drawing 2" property is set to "Drawing2" and the "Drawing 1" property is set to "Drawing1". The "All Drawings" property is shown above the View Drawings tool, and the settings of the "Drawing1" and "Drawing2" properties are shown below the View Drawings tool. Select the View Drawings tool, using the following steps: Select View – Drawings from the Drawing toolbar (the little diamond icon). If there is no Drawing property on the View Drawings tool, this means that there is no selection. Note: With Windows 8.1, there is no more drop-down menu for View – Drawings. You select View – Drawings from the Drawing toolbar. Note: There is a space between the two text items. Double-clicking with the mouse will insert a line. Pressing ALT + Enter inserts a carriage return and an enter. You can select multiple drawings by holding the ALT key down and clicking on them. The drawings are selected. The
