Shopping Bag, Gift Registry. Shopping Bag, Gift Registry. Destiny Hack Guardian price: $19.99The present invention relates generally to transmitting data over packet-switched networks, and more particularly to providing scalability in routing packets according to quality of service levels.

Cognitive networks, also referred to as intelligent networks, are being proposed for supporting various types of telecommunications service. For example, cognitive networks may be used to provide intelligent routing and switching to provide various quality of service levels for new multimedia services. As such, cognitive networks may receive data that require different types of quality of service levels and make routing decisions in view of the type of service. Accordingly, cognitive networks make routing decisions based on the quality of service requirements of each datagram within a data packet. The present invention may be used in a variety of different types of packet-switched networks, including asynchronous transfer mode (ATM) networks, asynchronous transfer mode compliant networks (AAMCN), and wide area networks (WANs) such as the T1, T3, fiber distributed data interface (FDDI), fiber distributed data interface enhanced

(FDDIE), Synchronous Optical Network (SONET) ring and Metro Ethernet. A user device may be connected to a packet-switched network via an access network, such as a digital subscriber line (DSL) or a cable modem. An access device associated with the access network may communicate with a device manager. If a packet-switched network comprises a plurality of access devices, the plurality of access devices may be connected with a management device. When a packet-switched network comprises a plurality of access devices, the management device may communicate with each of the plurality of access devices in order to manage the plurality of access devices. One example of a management device is a service module. In an example, a service module is a product available from Cisco Systems, Inc. and may be used for services management in an ATM network. A service module provides a service to an access device so that the service module may manage the access device. The access device may be a telephone, for example. The service module may be part of a service processor device. For example, the service module may be part of a service processor device available from Nortel Networks Corporation. According to one aspect of the invention, a method of routing traffic in a packet
