In the meantime, the Patriot Games Act, which was supposed to make it easier to track criminals who steal trade secrets, the failed Homeland Security Czar, and now the jailing of American Chamber of Commerce Executives President Ron Bloom for attempting to expose President Obama's shady ties to ACORN (which, amazingly, still refuses to disband) are we seeing an administration that can't be trusted, or just an agency more interested in finding the headline grabbing criminal than in preventing such criminals from continuing their criminal activities? Lawyers should be able to represent those who are innocent of wrongdoing, and such lawyers should not have to be threatened with jail in order to render legal services to the defendants. Such threats are abhorrent to our nation's heritage of liberty. And, when those attorneys choose to speak out against their clients in order better to serve them, such an action should not be construed as libelous. In the past few days, two lawyers representing victims of the fraud perpetrated by ACORN have been arrested and are facing federal charges for asking their clients to submit affidavits and documentation to prove that they had been victimized by the ACORN fraud. In the words of a Supreme Court decision handed down in 1954, "In America a man is presumed to be innocent until he is proved to be guilty." That is what we expect in a free society, and it is what we expect from our President. Yet, this is a President who has already proved himself to be unworthy of the highest office in the land, and one who is not above the law. Even though Ron Bloom and the

Well, if you're not in charge of your computer, then you have no control over when and how often it starts...Facebook is taking a page from the book of "Harry Potter" wizarding house and introducing a new table format. As part of the company's Audience Network (and previously Discovery Channel) Originals team up with Warner Brothers and the division's top talent to bring you new, original programming, Facebook announced this morning that fans of the WB & DC Comics' highly anticipated series Crisis on Infinite Earths, which premieres Sunday, are in for a major twist: From the hit series "Crisis On Infinite Earths" comes #CrisisOnInfiniteEarths, a 4-episode mini-series, featuring some of the most iconic characters in DC Comics history and set on the character-defining Earth-1 from the series, which answers big questions about Earth-2 and the multiverse, and promises to answer more mysteries and questions about the history of the DC Universe you've never known. The series features appearances by: Barry Allen as The Flash, Wally West as The Flash, John Stewart as Green Lantern, John Stewart as Green Lantern, Courtney Whitmore as Black Canary, John Constantine as Hellblazer, Wally West and Linda Park as The Flash, Ellen Yoon as Supergirl, Martha Wayne as The Oracle, Jay Garrick as The Flash, Rose McGowan as Chloe Sullivan / Captain Marvel, Andrew Kishino as Nightwing, Mark Hamill as The Joker, Robin Williams as Uncle Randolph, and Tom Welling as Clark Kent. Joining them are: Shawn Ashmore as Green Lantern, Michelle Forbes as The Enchantress, Billy Crudup as Lex Luthor, Tyler Hoechlin as Superman, Donal Logue as The Riddler, Misty Kupchick as Wonder Woman, and Brandon Routh as The Atom. My two cents is, if it's good enough for DC, it should be good enough for us. I did go ahead and watch the first episode, and I have to say I was completely taken by surprise, as I like to watch everything with a clean slate. I'll say, if you've yet to watch Crisis on
