Protein-bound endotoxin was determined in blood samples taken from hemodialysed patients with renal failure (1) after participation in intensive continuous in-centre haemodialysis (CHD) with a significant decline, (2) after participation in CHD with maintenance dialysate, with a marked rise in endotoxin levels, and (3) before and after participation in CHD on an outpatient basis with a high correlation in pre- and post-dialysis endotoxin values (r = 0.871, p less than 0.001). Endotoxin levels also correlated in blood samples taken from controls (r = 0.764, p less than 0.001). After participation in CHD without maintenance dialysate the correlation between endotoxin levels 6d1f23a050
