Starting at $50, Amazon is slashing the price of its smart speakers by $10 to $30 depending on the model. The list of deals includes the more expensive models, with the company noting that its Amazon Echo Show is already a hot item. Additionally, the company is offering an Echo Flex that it says "empowers voice shopping and ordering" and the Echo Loop that "delivers groceries and other goods from Amazon." I'll keep it short, so that I don't bore you too much (just as I've bored myself lately). The most important news is that I've started a new site. If you'd like to check it out, drop me a line on my contact page. I still have this site up and running: it's not going anywhere, and I have a lot of stuff on here from high school, but the new site should be up and running, with new stuff, soon. In the meantime, I've started working on the second book in the Trillium series. I haven't done too much yet, just some world building. The next few months should be quite a bit of work, because I'm not going to be able to keep myself from thinking about my characters. It might be a bit of a problem.Q: MonoTouch Sudoku I am trying to add Sudoku to my MonoTouch app, but I am running into a lot of issues. I am not sure whether to use a View or a ViewController for my Sudoku content. I did add the Sudoku to a ViewController and then added a the ViewController into the TableView. However this seems messy and I'm unsure whether that is the correct approach. My second approach was to add the Sudoku to the View itself, and create a ViewController that I then add to the TableView. The most obvious problems here is that I cannot use CoreData, and would 6d1f23a050
