This is a valuable comment from the workbook. As I wrote in the post, word-of-mouth (including social media promotion) is an important channel for building a brand. However, it is important that the first impression on brand is good as there might be limited growth. All teachers involved in any of the AOPA High School Initiative Courses should attend the three-hour TEA Common Core Partnership training. All teachers who are participating in the AOPA High School Initiative should also access the Collaborative Distance Learning program (CDL) via the AOPA High School Initiative. CDL is an online curriculum designed to help teachers prepare their students for testing through a variety of written, math, science, and social studies diagnostic assessments. Teachers may select as many as three types of assessments (multiple choice, science questions, and brief essay/response) for their students. Multiple choice quizzes and essay/response tests are completed at the school level. Quizzes and tests are sent to teachers electronically via an online portal. In many instances, teachers may select to customize assignments through a variety of themes. Teachers may also distribute these assignments to their students through the online portal. The aim is to empower students to be capable of sustaining and enhancing life in all spheres and in all aspects through an educational program that would help them realize the capability and need for good self-development. The aim is achieved through an integrated approach of the sciences and arts, which emphasize the application of concepts and techniques to a multitude of disciplines and hands-on activities to motivate students toward the future goal of being more than they are and to achieve the highest standards of excellence, which, in turn, translates into their career goals.
