Nitric oxide synthase inhibitors and angiotensin antagonists as possible inducers of cytotoxicity in cultured astrocytes: a comparative study. Nitric oxide synthase (NOS) inhibitors and an angiotensin II (Ang II) receptor antagonist, AT1, induced cytotoxicity in cultured astrocytes that was concentration (from 1 to 100 microM)- and time-dependent. The cytotoxicity induced by these two compounds was partially reversed by the antioxidant butylated hydroxyanisole. Since the cytotoxicity induced by NOS inhibitors and AT1 receptor antagonists requires oxygen, and since hypoxia has been implicated in cell injury of various systems including nervous tissues, the role of oxygen deprivation was investigated. The addition of low O<sub>2</sub> tension (5% and 10%) and NOS inhibitor inhibited cell proliferation, but the antiproliferative effect of NOS inhibition was partially reversed by treatment with antioxidants. AT1 receptor antagonists increased cell death that was concomitant with the decrease of intracellular GSH and the increase of lipid peroxidation. These data show that inhibition of NOS and AT1 receptors results in the inhibition of cell proliferation, and it was also found that NOS inhibitors and AT1 receptor antagonists may produce cytotoxicity partly through the oxygen-dependent pathway of their pharmacologic action.

Q: How do I make a texture layer ignore light? I'm modeling a racing car using Blender. I want to make it so that it will always be lit, but not project any shadows. I'm getting confused about settings.
